HYDRATION GUIDE

Especially Important in Hot Weather!

for Happy Bunnies

Hydration is one of the best ways to protect your bunny's health—especially in warm weather. A well-hydrated bunny = a happy, healthy bunny!

MY BUN DRINKS 500ml OF WATER A DAY!

Every bunny is different! 500ml can be normal for a larger bun (3.5–5kg), in hot weather, or on a hay-heavy diet.

As long as your bunny eats well, poops well, and pees normally—you're doing great!

7 BUNNY-APPROVED HYDRATION HACKS

1 BOWL + BOTTLE THE DYNAMIC DUO

Always offer a heavy ceramic bowl (their favorite!) plus a bottle as backup. More choices, more sips!

2 WET & WILD GREENS

EXTRA COOL TIP!
Serve washed greens dripping wet. For extra cooling, chill them in the fridge before mealtime! Hydration + Nutrition = Win!

3 HERB-INFUSED FRESH WATER

Add fresh, bunny-safe herbs like mint, basil or cilantro to their water for a naturally enticing aroma.

Change every 4–6 hours!

4 ICE, ICE, BUNNY!

Add 1–3 ice cubes to keep water cool & refreshing. Many bunnies love to lick or nudge them!

5 MULTIPLE WATER SPOTS

Place bowls in different areas (resting spots, play areas, both levels) so fresh water is always within reach.

6 KEEP IT CLEAN, KEEP IT FRESH

Rinse bowls daily and refresh water several times a day, especially in hot weather. Clean water = happy sips!

7 HAY FIRST, HYDRATION FOLLOWS

A hay-rich diet naturally supports healthy hydration and digestion. Unlimited hay + fresh water = a happy, healthy tummy!

SIGNS TO WATCH FOR

- Drinking much more than usual
- Large amounts of urine
- Lethargy or low energy
- Reduced appetite
- Small or fewer droppings

If you notice these changes, please consult your rabbit-savvy vet.

DAILY HYDRATION CHECKLIST

- Fresh water available 24/7
- Ceramic bowl + bottle (clean & full)
- Greens served fresh & slightly wet
- Herbs & natural greens for variety
- Multiple water stations
- Shade & cool environment
- Monitor drinking & urination
- Lots of love & bunny snuggles!

A GENTLE REMINDER

500ml might be your bunny's perfect amount—and that's okay! Every bun has their own personality and needs. Trust the little habits, you know your bunny best.
